stronson Howard, the wealthy playsright, has been working as persistently at the Academy of Music, superintending the revival of "Shenandoah" at that house, as though it were his first play and his reputation depended success. He has spent his days nd nights at the theatre, and every pervision. He was there yesterday ablochment, meeker than the man who the floor, and less egotistical humblest actor in the com-He wore a little, inoffensive tyle known as "washable" and an insuit of clothes. "While this vival will be much more spectacular nan the original production," said Mr. than the original production," said Mr. Howard, "nothing has been sacrificed for the sake of effect. All the spectacular embellishments grow legitimately out of cavalry possibilities," Mr. Howard expects that the new comedy he is writing for Charles Frohman will be ready for production in December. "It all depends upon how I feel," he said, "When my brain is tired I step writing, and I can never tell how often may be interrupted by that tired feeling. However, the comedy will cerastily be ready this season,"

Jakabowski, the composer of "Erminie." is coming to this country next month to visit Francis Wilson and see that gentleman in "The Devil's Deputy," for which Jakabowski supplied the music. Brandon Thomas is also coming over. He is under contract to supply Wilson with a libretto, and he has never seen him yet. Thomas didn't like America when he was over here with Resina Vokes, in the days of his poverty. An American who visited the Savage Club in London heard Brandon say some very rude things about this country. He declared that the only sourteous person he met in the United States was a colored mun. The author mas probably changed since those days, and as he sails into the bay he will leat forth the stereotyped "I love dear America and the dear Americans and heir dollars."

Little Miss Minchen Becker, the tallest of the Lillputians, who married a rich uptown brewer not very long ago and retired from the stage, wants to go back to the footlights, and will probably do so next season. She did not forsake her theatrical friends when she took a husband, and still entertains the tiny people of the Rosenfelds company. Miss Becker will not be a Lillputian again, however. "We could not advertise her as a Lillputian, said Manager Steiner yenterday. "She has grown too stout. She used to be very slim," So Miss Becker will probably appear again under Manager Adolf Philipps's direction. . . .

Warden Durston, of the Sing Sing Prison, went to Koster & Bial's the other right, and was much impressed. It was for the living pictures that struck his tancy; nor did be gloat over the antics of Calcedo, King of the Wire, or the Lara-Larsens family. He went into Laptures over the steins in which the beer was rerved, and ordered nine dozen of them for Sing Sing, to be used there as mustard-pois!

Mary Anderson is to appear at Salem, lass., in Pygmalion and Galatea." his little bit of news is not as intersting as it might be, for it must be membered that there are Mary Andersons and Mary Andersons.

List to this, ye lady stars, who love change your gowns five or six times uring a performance, and give your ressmaker a line on the programme. Ilsa Kate Rorke, the well-known Engshactress, has been interviewed, and er views on the subject of stage ressing are so startling that they are sorth repeating. "I think an actress hould dress as simply as possible," she aid, "especially when taking a pathetic sit. It is a mistake to keep changing lie's gown, for it distracts the attention of the audience; the public, especially the feminine portion of it, does not are what the woman you represent is saying or feeling if you come each time into the stage in a different and perhaps more striking dress than that worn in the last act. The audience torgets what is going on, and only thinks of the smart frocks and of the effect produced by them." What would Miss Rorke

On the pictures will you please put of

"On the pictures will you please put on a little bit:
Now, if you don't, why, in the house we cannot sit,
The pictures they are nice, but we will not see them twice.
If you don't put on a little bit.
They could do could do, could do, could do, could do with a bit.
Lace is chean, it don't cost much to purchase a bit;
So the managers thereupon put some dainty drapery on.
And they did with a little yery well."

"I am taking up a dollar collection to bury a pollegian," remarks the humorous Sloan in the new "192," "Here's replies Walter Jones, "bury ten of them." And the audience roars with laughter.

There is no truth in the statement circulated in some quarters vesterday that the Cloakmakers (filon has requested Joseph Barondeas to return to this city from Baltimore, where he went zone time ago. The name of Barondeas was not mentioned at the meeting at which if is alleged. Barondeas was to have been re-elected manager. At the last meeting of the Calcium Light Opera-ora Union, No. 1, of Brooklyn, R. J. Barr was re-elected delegate to the Central Labor Union of Brooklyn, Mr. Barr has been recording and cor-responding secretary of the Union, Go. H. Thomas was elected and installed as secretary.
